Volunteers to Lend a Hand During National Public Lands Day

*Volunteers invited to roll up their sleeves to help spruce up
Valley Forge National Historical Park*

VALLEY FORGE, PA – Volunteers are invited to dig in and spruce up Valley Forge National Historical Park on Saturday, September 25, 2010 in celebration of National Public Lands Day.

The annual event, now in its 17th year, is the nation's largest hands-on volunteer effort to improve and enhance the nation's 600 million acres of public lands. Activities at Valley Forge begin at 8:30 a.m. with walk in registration and volunteer sign-in. Participants are asked to meet at the Visitor Center lower parking area. Volunteers will have the opportunity to make a real difference in the park by joining park staff to remove invasive plants and crayfish, conducting trails maintenance and much more.

"We plan to have at least 14 projects for volunteers to choose from, as well as a guided nature hike lead by the Audubon Society and an Environmental Expo. "We hope that volunteers who participate in these important activities on National Public Lands Day will discover the value and importance of this special place and will continue to stay connected to the park throughout the year by additional volunteering, joining the Friends of Valley Forge Park, or shopping at the Encampment Store located in the park's Visitor Center," said Caldwell.

He added that "We're happy to be partnering again with REI for the fifth year in a row for this important public event, and appreciate their commitment and dedication to preserving our environment.

In 2009 at Valley Forge, more than 320 participants planted native trees and plants, removed trash, stabilized streambanks along Valley Creek, and removed invasive plants. The group also constructed a new mulch trail at Varnum's Picnic area.

About Valley Forge National Historical Park Valley Forge National Historical Park educates present and future generations of Americans about one of the most defining events in our nation's history by preserving the natural and cultural resources that commemorate the encampment of the Continental Army at Valley Forge in 1777-78. To learn more visit www.nps.gov/vafo.

National Public Lands Day began in 1994 with three federal agencies and 700 volunteers. Last year nearly 100,000 volunteers worked in 1,100 locations and in every state. Now, nine federal agencies and many state and local lands participate in this annual day of caring for shared lands. National Public Lands Day keeps the promise of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the “tree army” that worked from 1933-42 to preserve and protect America's natural heritage. www.publiclandsday.org.

About REI

Recreational Equipment Inc. (REI) is an outdoor retail co-op dedicated to inspiring, educating and outfitting its 2.8 million active members and the community for a lifetime of outdoor adventure. Founded in 1938 by a group of Pacific Northwest mountaineers seeking quality equipment, REI operates retail stores nationwide, two online stores – REI.com and REI-OUTLET.com – and an adventure travel company. As an active supporter of the communities in which it does business, REI is committed to promoting environmental stewardship and increasing access to outdoor recreation through education, volunteerism, gear donations and financial contributions. REI is helping build a lasting legacy of trails, rivers, and wild lands for generations to come, supporting programs to help people of all ages and experiences participate. In 2005, REI will give over $2.5 million back to the communities in which it does business through grants and outreach programs. To learn more about REI at www.rei.com.
